Abstract: Public accounting is a science that records, monitors and studies administrative and economic acts and facts exploited by the public-owned organization, allowing to create information about the variations and results of the share capital earned by its administration and provided to users. In 2008, Brazilian accounting standards applied to the public sector were approved, setting parameters for the registration, measurement and evidence of accounting information in the public sector, in order to establish public accounting rules in order to standardize and gain a uniform understanding of all procedures. Such standards have led to the need for changes that will be mandatory and phased out. In the Federal Union, states and the federal district, the public sector billing plan should be in place from 2012, while municipalities must do so by 2013. In addition, as a result of the new procedures adopted for public accounting, it should be noted that the results will be demonstrated by adding new parts to the financial statements already prepared by the public sector, i.e., in addition to the Budget Balance, The Financial Report, the Balance Sheet, the Equity Variations Report, the Cash Flow Statement will also be prepared forcibly and the Statement of Economic Results will not be available. This field study was carried out using a questionnaire sent to accountants working in the immediate municipal public administration in the AMREC region. These questions were carried out objectively, trying to verify the opinion of experts regarding the new procedures, which should be introduced into the state accounting. The results of the study were explained through graphs and tables where the opinions of experts contributed to the real work.
